

BOOKS OF THE REALMS VOL VII

MITHRIL HALL

100 BOOKS FOUND IN DWARVEN STRONGHOLDS IN THE FORGOTTEN REALMS AND BEYOND

Books Of The Realms Mithril Hall

Written by: B. Wraven Wright

Layout: Niklaus Evron

Cover Illustration: Ernst Czernotsky

Follow Us On Instagram For New Releases and Promotions
@RPGWriting75

Some of the tomes that are found in this supplement are available for purchase.
We appreciate your support!

DUNGEONS & DRAGONS, D&D, Wizards of the Coast, Forgotten Realms, the dragon ampersand, and all other Wizards of the Coast product names, and their respective logos are trademarks of Wizards of the Coast in the USA and other countries.

This work contains material that is copyright Wizards of the Coast and/or other authors. Such material is used with permission under the Community Content Agreement for Dungeon Masters Guild. All other original material in this work is copyright 2020 by B. Wraven Wright and published under the Community Content Agreement for Dungeon Masters Guild. Any similarity to actual people, organizations, places, or events included herein is purely coincidental.

Vanitas -Still life (1860's), by Ernst Czernotsky has been identified as a public domain work of art, being free of known restrictions under copyright law, including all related and neighboring rights of the United States and the work's origin country.

d100	Book Title	Description
1	Learning Of Our Kind: Arctic Dwarves	This white leather bound tome discusses the race of Arctic Dwarves that are found around the Great Glacier Area of Faerun. They tend to be smaller in stature than other dwarves, but also more physically powerful. This book is written in Dwarfish.
2	King Battlehammer: Legends and Lore Aengis Fang	This book is bound in orange rusty leather. In it, contains the story of Aengis Fang, the dwarven thrower that King Battlehammer made for son, Wulfgar. This book is written in Dwarfish and contains some of the prayers the Bruenor said to Moradin while making this weapon.
3	The Gods Of Our Stock: Clangeddin Silverbeard	This book is made of thinly hammered silver and discusses Clangeddin Silverbeard: Clangeddin is the dwarven deity of battle and honor in warfare. He is known as the Father of Battle and the Lord of the Twin Axes. His holy symbol is two crossed battleaxes. He delights in battle, although does not tolerate treachery or deceit, and expects his followers to do the same. Followers of Clangeddin hate giants and train their fellow dwarves in special ways to fight them. The book is written in Dwarfish.
4	Crafters Of Our People: Jemel Ganza	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This depicts Jemel working with various dwarven wizards to remove curses bestowed upon ancient dwarven weapons. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.
5	Dwarven Clan Law Vol: IV	This is a heavy slate binder that has each law engraved into the pages. This binder discusses the law: "A dwarf shall never act against any other dwarf, of any clan, by aiding or using the aid of non-dwarven creatures. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.
6	Gauntlgrym to Shadowdale	This rolled up map is tattooed on light purple skin and gives detailed directions from the main halls of Gauntlgrym all the way to a cave near the Hangman's Knoll area of Shadowdale. The map provides for rest areas and provides details on fungus that is safe to eat that is native to the trail. This map is written in Dwarfish.
7	The Lost Cache Of Goink Toesplode	This book contains the random scribblings of the famous gnome alchemist, Goink Toesplode. Hidden inside the binding of the book, one finds a map to a hidden cache of Oil of Impact deep in the Underdark. The map is written in Gnomish.
8	Folio of Brass	Tellar Moendath of Luskan discuss the variety of ways to smelt copper and zinc to create brass at various purities. This book is written in Common.
9	Hammers By Our Hand: Delzoun's Fist	This book describes the legendary hammer Delzoun's Fist. Wielding this hammer gave the user strength greater than that of a Hill Giant and gave them the ability to cast certain spells from it. Wielders that used the hammer against opponents that were not of evil alignment started to feel negative side effects such as rapid ageing and poor health. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.

d100	Book Title	Description
10	An Old Warrior's Way	Dathlance of Selgaunt writes about his staunch views of warriors using magic, outside of enchanted weapons and armor. This book is written in Common.
11	The Gods Of Our Stock: Thard Harr	The cover of this book is made from a deep green python skin and discusses Thard's role in the dwarven pantheon: Thard Harr is the dwarven god of jungle survival and hunting, and is the patron of the wild dwarves. He watches over them and works to ensure their continued survival. His followers revere the jungles they live in and do their best to live in harmony with and to protect the jungles from outsiders who would do it harm. His followers tend to be suspicious and isolationist, and are rarely willing to interact with outsiders. The book is written in Dwarfish.
12	The Gods Of Our Stock: Sharindlar	This book is made of thinly hammered bronze discusses Sharindlar: Sharindlar, also known as the Lady of Life and Mercy, is the chaotic good dwarven deity of healing and mercy. Sharindlar represents an aspect of dwarven life rarely seen by others. Her command of fertility expands her clergy's influence over animal husbandry along with developing new varieties of crops. The book is written in Dwarfish.
13	Great Big Book Of Battleragers	This book talks about the chaotic dwarven fighters known as the battleragers or Kuldjargh in their native Dwarvish, which literally translates to "axe idiot". Famous Battleragers discussed are Thibbledorf Pwent, Crunch, and Orettheo Spikes. This book is written in Dwarfish.
14	Hammerfoes Hardtack	This is a small paper chapbook that has a number of recipes for travel rations hastily written in Dwarvish. The chapbook smells faintly of bacon.
15	Hammers By Our Hand: Runehammer Faerindyl	This book describes the legendary Runehammer Alhalbrin. A user of this darksteel hammer could strike their opponent, giving a large shower of flames as if the hammer could cast the Burning Hands spell. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.
16	The Gods Of Our Stock: Haela Brightaxe	This book is made of thinly hammered iron that has been painted yellow with a sword embossed into the cover and discusses Haela's role in the dwarven pantheon: Haela Brightaxe is the matron of good-aligned dwarves who love battle and who live to cleanse Toril of evil monsters. Haelan clerics fight monsters whenever they find them, either to destroy the evil beast, or just for the thrill of battle. Haela, as a goddess of luck, takes great risks in the battles she fights. Most of her clergy are women and are called "blood-maidens". The book is written in Dwarfish.
17	Learning Of Our Kind: Shield Dwarves	A large brass shield takes up most of the cover of this book. Shield dwarves are on average half a foot taller than other dwarves. They are the most common dwarf in the north of Faerun. They have light skin that is fair or lightly tanned and green or silvery blue eyes with long light brown or red hair, growing white or gray with age. Bruenor Battlehammer is a famous shield dwarf. This book is written in Dwarfish.

d100	Book Title	Description
18	Dwarven Clan Law Vol: V	This is a heavy slate binder that has each law engraved into the pages. This binder discusses the law: "A dwarf shall not refuse to aid another dwarf of the clan, when the life or health of the needy dwarf is in danger. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish
19	Map Of The Fardrimm	This is a one foot by one foot quartz slab about an inch thick. This provides a map of the ancient road of the Fardrimm, the network of tunnels built by the Delzoun that scrolls, shrink and enlarges based on the users finger movements upon it. The names however, are in Netherese.
20	Crafters Of Our People: Azan Stonesplitter	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This tome depicts Azan Stonesplitter, the owner and proprietor of Ironhand's Arms, a weapon shop in Highcastle. His store offers quality weapons at fair prices for the local Dalesmen and travelers who often pass through on the road between Cormyr and Sembia. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.
21	The Gods Of Our Stock: Marthammor Duin	This book is made green leather with a fur lined inner jacket and discusses Marthammor's role in the dwarven pantheon: Marthammor Duin is the young dwarven god of wanderers and patron of dwarves who leave their clan holds to explore the world. He is also known as Finder-of-Trails, Watcher over Wanderers and the Watchful Eye. The book is written in Dwarfish.
22	Learning Of Our Kind: Duergar	This black leather tome is written in Dwarfish and discusses the origins of the Duergar. In -8100 DR, Clan Duergar separated themselves from their brethren and eventually were captured by Mind Flayers. During their captivity, which lasted for generations, the mind flayers performed many cruel and unusual experiments on the dwarves. It was during this harsh period of their history that the duergar emerged as a distinct subrace.
23	Learning Of Our Kind: Dream Dwarves	This earth brown leather tome discusses Dream Dwarves. Dream Dwarves are very rare in Faerun, and although what they lack in traditional dwarf aptitude in craftsmanship, they more than make up for in attunement to the earth when they are able to enter a state of consciousness known as the earth dream. They usually end up becoming druids who hold Moradin as well as Chauntea in high regards. This book is written in Dwarfish.
24	Of Sigurd	Sigurad of Earthfast writes about his love of firewine and strong ales found in the country of Rashemen. This book is written in Common.
25	The Gods Of Our Stock: The Fallen Abbathor	This book is made of thinly hammered iron that is has been burned and is sooty to the touch: Abbathor, also known as the Great Master of Greed, was the neutral evil dwarven god of greed before becoming an exarch of Bane. He was an intensely greedy deity and was both desirous and envious of others' riches. Abbathor and his followers believed in the acquisition of all forms of wealth by any and all means necessary. The book is written in Dwarfish.

d100

Book Title

Description

- 26 The Gods Of Our Stock: Dugmaren Brightmantle This brass clockwork book opens up and turns its own pages when the key is wound up in it's spine. Dugmaren Brightmantle is also known as the Errant Explorer, and is the dwarven deity of scholarship, discovery and invention. Dugmaren Brightmantle signifies the exploratory striving to blaze the trails of creativity by using accumulated knowledge to create that which is new and good. Brightmantle represents the progressive elements of a race that sometimes prides itself to adhering to old ways. The book is written in Dwarfish.

- 27 Bromm and Harnoth: The Two Brothers Of Citadel Adbar This book discusses the twin rulers of Citadel Adbar: Bromm and Harnoth. When Bromm, the elder brother was slain, Harnoth ruled alone. This book is written in Common.

- 28 Kings and Queens Of Mithril Hall: Garumn Battlehammer This is 3 ring binder made of mithril with then sheets of the same material engraved with text. Garum Battlehammer was the sixth king of Mithril Hall, and led the mining expedition into the Underdark that ultimately released Haerinvureem, better known as Shimmergloom, a shadow dragon who arose from the depths of the Underdark and ultimately took over Mithril Hall, causing the Battlehammer dwarves to flee. This book is written in Dwarfish.

- 29 Battered Bones and Scattered Skulls: The Life of a Dwarfven Champion Vol I Rauthglur Ormyndake writes of Regart Stoneshield, the earliest of dwarven champions born around 300 DR. In this volume, the time of Regart's birth to when he joined his first battalion is documented. This book is written in Dwarfish.

- 30 King Battlehammer: Legends and Lore The Kings Shield This book is bound in orange rusty leather. In it, contains the story of the kings shield, which after it was blessed by Moradin, was able to produce dwarven beer that provides strength to the drinker. This book is written in Dwarfish.

- 31 Learning Of Our Kind: Aquatic Dwarves This is a blue leather tome that is slightly damn to the touch and discusses Aquatic Dwarves. Aquatic Dwarves are thought to be extinct and have not been since a time in Faerun's history known as the First Flowering. Aquatic Dwarves were known to have dark green or blue skin, with webbed feet and hands. Although the gills in their necks and ribs enabled them to breathe in water, they also had the ability to breathe air as well. This book is written in Dwarfish.

- 32 The Gods Of Our Stock: Berronar Truesilver This book is made of thinly hammered gold and discusses Berronar's role in the dwarven pantheon: Berronar is Moradin's bride and as such the matriarch of the dwarven pantheon. The Revered Mother acts as an authority figure for the other dwarven gods and uses her skills in negotiation as a way to keep the pantheon unified if tensions may rise. The book is written in Dwarfish.

d100 Book Title Description

33 Hammers of Moradin This book has the holy symbol of Moradin on the cover and discusses the warpriests known as the Hammers of Moradin. Different than defenders, Hammers actively sought the dwarves' enemies, namely goblinoids, drow elves and evil giants, and destroyed them within their respective realms.

34 Maerin Of Illusk This dusty, crumbly tome describes the acts of Maerin of Illusk and her cooperation of the Delzoun dwarves to build Gauntlgrym around the legendary fire primordial, Maegera. This book is written in Dwarfish.

35 The Gods Of Our Stock: Moradin This book is made of thinly hammered platinum and contains the creed of Moradin: "Moradin is the father and creator of the dwarven race. Honor him by emulating his principles and workmanship in smithing, stoneworking, and other tasks. Wisdom is derived from life and tempered with experience. Advance the dwarven race in all areas of life. Innovate with new processes and skills. Found new kingdoms and clan lands, defending the existing ones from all threats. Lead the dwarves in the traditions laid down by the Soul Forger. Honor your clan leaders as you honor Moradin." The book is written in Dwarfish.

36 Hammers By Our Hand: Dumathoin's Wrath This book describes the legendary Dumathoin's Wrath throwing hammer. A goodly follower of Dumathoin received a number of benefits from this hammer, including combining the effects of a Dwarven Thrower and Holy Avenger (but against giants) per the Dungeon Master's guide. In addition, the wielder also could walk wearing platemail but have not have any of the penalties to stealth associated with this armor type. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.

37 Crafters Of Our People: Tred McKnuckles This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This tome depicts Tred, who was known for the twin throwing hammers (Nixxie and Trixie) that he wore on each of his shoulders. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.

38 Crafters Of Our People: Krystryd Mithralforge This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This tome depicts Krystryd, a blacksmith in the village of Quaervarr who fought undead such as phantoms and ghosts. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.

39 Learning Of Our Kind: Wild Dwarves This book is caked in mud and is difficult to open. Wild dwarves live in the jungles of Chult and wear very little, if any, clothing, and grease their tattoo-covered dark skin to keep away insects and make themselves slippery. They often plaster themselves, skin and hair, with dried mud, which serves as a surprisingly effective armor. This book is written in Dwarfish.

40 Treaty of Garumn's Gorge This treaty was signed in 1372 DR by the dwarves and the orcs of the Garumn's Gorge area to recognize the orc Kingdom of Many Arrows and outline rules for maintaining peace in the area. This treaty is written in Dwarfish, Orcish, and Common.

d100

Book Title

Description

41 Crafters Of Our People: Rhundorth This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This tome depicts Rhundorth, a blacksmith who was captured by the Cult Of The Black Earth during the Elemental Evil Crisis who eventually breaks free. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.

42 Battered Bones and Scattered Skulls: The Life of a Dwarven Champion Vol II Rauthglur Ormyndake writes of Regart Stoneshield, the earliest of dwarven champions born around 300 DR. In this volume, Regart leaves the military ranks of his clan and goes on a life of adventuring. This book is written in Dwarfish.

43 Underdark Caravans This book is a manifesto of items coming in from other dwarven citadels and holdings to trade with Citadel Adbar. The list included fresh fruit, grains, and vegetables which were not readily available in Adbar. This book is written in Common.

44 The Lost Cache Of Bobongo Felsmasher Inside this scroll case is a map that leads to a small treasure chest hidden in the cubby hole of a cave in Mithril Hall. Inside there is a small locket that alerts the wearer if a demonic presence is near. This map is written in Dwarfish

45 Caring For Dwarven Children This small leather reader provides instructions on how to make wooden swords, shields, axes, and hammers for small dwarven children. This book is written in Dwarfish.

46 The Story Of Maegera This red leather tome tells the story of Maegera, the fire primordial that powers the forges of Gauntlgrym. The story reveals that after the last war between gods and primordials, Maegera, tired of fighting and uninterested in following its fellow primordials to the world of Abeir, entered in a coma-like sleep beneath the Crag in Northwest Faerûn in the area that would be known as Gauntlgrym centuries later. The remaining pages in the book are burned and illegible. This books written in an old dialect of dwarfish.

47 Ores Book This is a blank chapbook that glows faintly of magic. When ever one writes the name of a particular metal in Dwarfish in the book, the ink for that word changes to match the type of metal described (writing the word 'gold' will change the ink for that work into gold).

48 The Lost Cache Of Robert Ironsmelt This false book contains a miniature halberd that the author describes as a toothpick. However when the magical phrase "Iron Stag" is mentioned, the halberd grows in size that is appropriate to it's wielder. This book is written in Common.

49 Hammers By Our Hand: Avenging Hammer This book describes the legendary Avenging Hammer. This book discusses a legendary hammer that when thrown or swung against and opponent who is wearing metal armor, sometimes the hammer shatters that metal armor, exposing its wearer . This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.

d100	Book Title	Description
50	Crafters Of Our People: Ghelryn Foehammer	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This depicts Ghelryn making splendid ceremonial plate male armor for the royalty of Citadel Felbarr, and later being awarded with the title of Royal Armorer. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.
51	Schematics Of Citadel Felbarr	These blueprints are rolled tightly into a leather tube. In common, each blueprint is clearly labeled for each piece of the fortress: The Hammer, The Anvil, The Runegate, The North Vigil, The South Vigil, The Hall Of Ceremony, and The Cemetery.
52	Hammers By Our Hand: Runehammer Thundaril	This book describes the legendary Runehammer Alhalbrin. A user of this darksteel hammer could strike their opponent, and transform them into either a snail or a toad. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.
53	Crafters Of Our People: Hada Forgebreath	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This depicts Hada fighting the Cult of The Crushingwave in Mulmaster. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.
54	Learning Of Our Kind: Gold Dwarves	Light brown leather binds this book and discusses the race of dwarves known as Gold Dwarves. Gold dwarves tend to be distinguishable by their light brown or tanned skin, significantly darker than that of most dwarves, and their brown or hazel eyes. This book is written in Dwarfish.
55	The Lost Cache Of Aerie Peaksmasher	Inside this scroll case is a map that leads to small nest of baby griffins that the author was raising shortly before he died in the mountains near Arabel. This map is written in Dwarfish
56	Crafters Of Our People: Berl Cuttler	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This depicts the adventures of Berl Cutter, working to instill reform against Hillsfar's laws against non humans. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.
57	Learning Of Our Kind: Urdunnir	This book appears to be very weathered and has not withstood the tests of time. This book discusses creatures of legend created by Dumathoin from the shield dwarves that lived in Shanatar. After their creation, the urdunnirin went into the depths of the Underdark, never to be seen again. Urdunnirin are said to be similar in statue to shield dwarves, with stone gray skin and eyes of silver. This book is written in Dwarfish.
58	The Gods Of Our Stock: Tharmekhûl	This book is made of thinly hammered cobalt and discusses Tharmekhûl. Tharmekhûl is the personal assistant of Moradin, and the dwarven demipower of the forge and the destructive properties of fire. Tharmekhûl is of a very narrow focus, and mainly task his followers with the kindling of new forges with elemental fire or with retrieving relics from ancient dwarven forges. The book is written in Dwarfish.
59	Hammers By Our Hand: The Winged Hammer	This book describes the legendary Winged Hammer. This hammer is able to sprout feathered wings and enable it's wielder to fly. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.

d100	Book Title	Description
60	The Helm Of Haggar	This is an engraved helm whose size is suitable for a dwarf. Engraved inside the helm, is the story of Haggar, a dwarven barbarian who would spit ale into the faces of his foes to gain an advantage in combat. This story is written in Dwarfish.
61	The Gods Of Our Stock: Vergadin	This book is made of thinly hammered steel that has been tinted yellow and discusses Vergadin's role in the dwarven pantheon: Sharindlar, also known as the Lady of Life and Mercy, is the chaotic good dwarven deity of healing and mercy. Sharindlar represents an aspect of dwarven life rarely seen by others. Her command of fertility expands her clergy's influence over animal husbandry along with developing new varieties of crops. The book is written in Dwarfish.
62	Crafters Of Our People: Graven Larvoldson	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This depicts the tragic tale of Graven, who as kidnapped by a vampire, forced to work as a blacksmith and then left to die in some hidden level of the Underdark. How did his tale get out? This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.
63	Crafters Of Our People: Wocco Brawnnavil	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This depicts the adventures of Wocco Brawnnavil, rapidly building his weapons to battle the army of many arrows. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.
64	The Dirge of Delzoun	This book is very heavy and requires a Strength of 13 or more to lift it. Inside is The Dirge of Delzoun: an epic dwarven ballad that tells the grim tale of the shield dwarves of the North. When this tome is read by a bard a they would assess that performing this ballad would take nearly thirty hours.
65	Ironmaster	This white leather bound tome discusses Ironmaster: an isolated towered city built into the rocky walls of a valley in the Frozenfar. This book is written in Dwarfish.
66	Hammers By Our Hand: Hammer Of Thunderbolts	This book describes the legendary Hammer Of Thunderbolts. Reading this tome provides the same lore and information as the entry for this weapon in the Dungeon Master's guide. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.
67	The Words of One Dwarf	Salhmitarr "Sage" Sorndar discusses his life of orc slaying, drinking dwarven mead, and chasing down foes.
68	Dwarven Clan Law Vol: III	This is a heavy slate binder that has each law engraved into the pages. This binder discusses the law: "A dwarf shall not conceal personal injury or illness from fellows of the same clan. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.
69	Crafters Of Our People: Cromwell	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This depicts the adventures of Cromwell, making superior quality armor out of the scales and hides of animals. The novel depicts Cromwell making plate armor out of an ankhegs shell and scale male from red dragon scales. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.

d100

Book Title

Description

70 Kings and Queens Of Mithril Hall: Banak Brawnnavil This small brown leather reader recants the tale of Banak Brawnnavil, eleventh king of Mithril Hall. Banak took an injury fighting goblins and spent the rest of his life in a wheel chair designed by gnomes. When Bruenor Battlehammer faked his death in 1409 DR, Banak was made the eleventh king of Mithril Hall. Within a few decades, he passed away and his son Connerad took his place as king. This book is written in Dwarfish.

71 Crafters Of Our People: Helda Silverstream This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This tome depicts Helga, who was a dwarf blacksmith that usually wandered from Waterdeep to Icewind Dale to sell her works. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.

72 Kings and Queens Of Mithril Hall: Bangor Battlehammer This is a false book that opens up to reveal a small statue of Bangor as the seventh king of Mithril Hall. Bangor was slain beside his father fighting Shimmergloom and abdicated his crown to Bruenor before he did. The carvings on this statue are in Dwarfish.

73 Kings and Queens Of Mithril Hall: Connerad Brawnnavil This is a hefty leather scroll that tells the story of Connerad Brawnnavil, twelfth king of Mithril Hall. Connerad was part of the Gutbuster Brigade and trained as a formidable warrior. During the Tyranny of Dragons, he was chosen as an ambassador of the Lords' Alliance dwarves at the Council of Waterdeep. This book is written in dwarfish.

74 King Battlehammer: Legends and Lore The Kings Axe This book is bound in orange rusty leather. In it, contains the story of the kings axe, which after it was blessed by Moradin, became a single edges flametounge axe. This book is written in Dwarfish.

75 Bolter This false book opens up to reveal 5 handcross bow bolts +1.

76 The Gods Of Our Stock: Gorm Gulthyn This book is made of thinly hammered steel that has been painted yellow & red and discusses Gorm's role in the dwarven pantheon: Gorm Gulthyn, also known as Fire Eyes, Lord of the Bronze Mask and the Eternally Vigilant, is the dwarven of defense and watchfulness and is the guardian of all dwarves. Avatars of Gorm appear frequently in the Realms, often to keep vigils on battlements, establish traps and deadfalls in neighboring passages, and instruct his clerics on plans for a steady and reliable defense. The book is written in Dwarfish.

77 The Lost Cache Of Hela Pickaxe Inside this scroll case is a map that leads to a small pool of water in the Underdark full of Pyrimo near the drow city of Ched Nasad. Drow assassins would dump their victims bodies there to hide them, as the Pyrimo would eat them. Helga maintained a small metallic treasure chest there that could not be eaten by the ravenous fish. This map is written in Dwarfish

78 Kings and Queens Of Mithril Hall: Bruenor Battlehammer II This metallic looking book opens up and acts as a windable music box that recants the events and adventures of Bruenor Battlehammer II, eighth and tenth king of Mithril Hall. Listening to the story (told in Common) takes a total of 5 hours and requires winding every hour to continue.

d100

Book Title

Description

79

*Learning Of
Our Kind: Gully
Dwarves*

This is a leather tome whose cover and binding appear to be stitched from various types of leather and discusses Gully Dwarves. Gully Dwarves hail from other Prime Material planes outside of Faerun and are generally regarded as an embarrassment to dwarvenkind. Dirty, slovenly, stupid creatures, gully dwarves are regarded out as an embarrassment, huddling in ruins or the trash-heaps of other races and grubbing out a meager existence on the leavings of other, greater peoples.
This book is written in Dwarfish.

80

*King
Battlehammer:
Legends and Lore
The Kings Helm*

This book is bound in orange rusty leather. In it, contains the story of the kings single horned helm, which after it was blessed by Moradin, was show to have life draining properties against his enemies. This book is written in Dwarfish.

81

*Kings and Queens
Of Mithril Hall:
Dagnabbet*

This is a pile of notes, with the ink still freshly drying. This drafted manuscript tells the story of the first Queen of Mithril Hall, Dagnabbet Waybeard. She served as a general under king Connerad and was a well known strategist. This book is written in Dwarfish.

82

*Crafters Of Our People: Korin
Ironnugget*

This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This depicts Korin working as a Zhentarim blacksmith slave who would do his best to sneak food to the other slaves held at the prison camp they were located in.
This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.

83

The Lost Cache Of Vee Barkcaller

Inside this scroll case is a map that leads to a tree in a grove outside the entrance to Citadel Felbarr. Inside, is a small chest that contains a solid gold acorn the size of a dwarf's fist. Although the items is worth its weight in gold, the map claims that this is a holy relic of the god Silvanus.

84

*Origin Of Gully
Dwarves*

The cover of this book depicts what appears to be a giant skeleton sprawled out on a grassy field. This book speculates on the origins of gully dwarves. On an alternative Prime Material plane, Ymir, the father of all giants fell dead and decomposed into the earth. In time the maggots that had started boring into his flesh transformed into small, pallid humanoids - the first gully dwarves. This book is written in Dwarfish.

85

*Dwarven Clan Law
Vol: II*

This is a heavy slate binder that has each law engraved into the pages. This binder discusses the law: "A dwarf shall not steal from another dwarf, nor keep from another dwarf that which is his or hers by right, whether through force or deceit. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.

86

Trade Goods Of Ironmaster

Upon picking up this book, it feels very heavy. Opening this false book, one finds with one smith bar of adamantine.

d100	Book Title	Description
87	Kings and Queens Of Mithril Hall: Bruenor Battlehammer	The story of Bruenor Battlehammer I is written upon his might shield and armor. Bruenor the first was the 2nd King of Mithril Hall. He was the youngest of Gandalug Battlehammer's three sons, and inherited the throne despite not being the oldest. It is his personal battle armor that became the official royal armor of all future Battlehammer kings. The text on the armor is written in Dwarfish.
88	Ode To Gutbuster	This is a pewter beer mug that as a scroll rolled up inside. Reading it, it is an ode to Gutbuster: a very foul tasting strong alcoholic beverage that grants the drinker temporary immunity to cold and poison. This poem is written in Dwarfish.
89	Dwarven Clan Law Vol: I	This is a heavy slate binder that has each law engraved into the pages. This binder discusses the law: "A dwarf shall not speak falsely to another dwarf. "This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.
90	Hammers By Our Hand: Runehammer Alhalbrin	This book describes the legendary Runehammer Alhalbrin. A user of this darksteel hammer could make the metal armor of their opponent heat upon contact by casting the heat metal spell. This book is written in Common and Dwarfish.
91	Secrets Of The Ironstar Mace	This black leather tome discusses the legendary Ironstar maces, normally the size of a footman's mace, these weapons only weighed one pound instead of the usual 4. The secret revealed at the end of the book is that clan Ironstar had found a vein of darksteel and had used it to make these weapons. This book is written in Common.
92	Kings and Queens Of Mithril Hall: The Missing Kings	This is a small chapbook in Dwarfish that discusses the third, fourth and fifth kings of Mithril Hall. However, all of the ink is smudged and illegible. The title is written in Dwarfish.
93	Great King Warcrown of Citadel Felbarr	This brown leather book discusses the events of the Year of the Nether Mountain Scrolls, 1486 DR, in which King Emerus Warcrown abdicated his throne and title to join Bruenor Battlehammer on the march to reclaim Gauntlgrym. This book is written in Common.
94	Crafters Of Our People: Uween Roundshield	This is a colorful graphic novel is printed on cured deep rothé leather. This tome depicts Uween Roundshield, who was a dwarf blacksmith in Citadel Felbarr and the mother to Reginald Roundshield, the reincarnated Bruenor Battlehammer in the late 15th century, DR. This graphic novel is written in dwarfish.
95	The Lost Cache Of Reginald Bluehammer	Inside this scroll case is a map that leads to a hidden cache of paint near the City Of Neverwinter that when painted on armor, will never wash off. This map is written in Dwarfish
96	King Battlehammer: Legends and Lore The Kings Horn	This book is bound in orange rusty leather. In it, contains the story of the kings horn. When he blew it, the spirit of Thibbledorf Pwent was summoned to fight on behalf of his king. This book is written in Common.

d100 Book Title Description

97 *Pikel
Bouldersoulder:
DooDad* This book describes the adventures of Pikel Bouldersoulder, the dwarven druid who became quite powerful and was a Chosen of Mielikki. Despite his strong command of earth magic, his ability to utilize speech was impaired, hence his pronunciation of the word 'druid' as 'doo-dad'. This book is written in Common.

98 *Kings and Queens
Of Mithril Hall:
Gandalug
Battlehammer* This stack of stone slabs tells the story of Gandalug Battlehammer, first king of Mithril Hall. Gandalug handed rulership of the kingdom over to his son, only to be captured by drow in the Underdark. Freed hundreds of years later by The Companions of The Hall, Gandulug became the 9th King of Mithril Hall. Gandalug died not long after his ascension to the throne. With his death, Thibbledorf Pwent and the famed Gutbuster Brigade sought out Bruenor Battlehammer to inform him that he, the eighth King of Mithril Hall, was the tenth King of Mithril Hall. This book is written in Dwarfish.

99 *The Gods Of Our
Stock: Dumathoin* This is a metal book with glass gems in the cover. Only by pressing the three gems in the correct sequence does the book unlock. This book discusses Dumathoin, the patron of shield dwarves, the dwarven deity of mining and underground exploration and is known as the Keeper of Secrets Under the Mountain. He is also the protector of the dwarven dead. The book is written in Dwarfish.

100 *Battered Bones and Scattered
Skulls: The Life of a
Dwarven
Champion Vol III* Rauthglur Ormyndake writes of Regart Stoneshield, the earliest of dwarven champions born around 300 DR. In this volume, Regart gains fame and great fortune in adventuring, slaying many giants and orcs, eventually deciding to retire and start a family in 550 DR. This book is written in Dwarfish.

Written by: B. Wraven Wright

Layout: Niklaus Evron

Cover Illustration: Jolene Beltane

Follow Us On Instagram For New Releases and Promotions
@RPGWriting75

Some of the tomes that are found in this supplement are available for purchase.
We appreciate your support!