RULES & GUIDELINES

Square the yards and hoist the spar! You're about to set sail on an exciting solo adventure. As Lathan, you will be leading a party of bold adventurers on a quest for a store of unrefined gold, and time is your greatest enemy!

Six different quests and prerolled characters are included in the adventure. You should play the part of Lathan and go on his quest first in order to learn the system.

Before you begin play, read the text in this section. You do not have to read the interaction sequence right away, but make sure you read the rules on how to use it.

The prerolled characters and their quests are given in the Prerolled characters section. Once you have familiarized yourself with the rules, read Lathan's quest. This text will start you on your journey. Be sure to read the special procedures given at the beginning of the land and sea encounter sections before you begin reading entries.

To play this solo adventure, you will need the D&D® Basic and Expert rules, a set of polyhedral dice, paper, a pencil, and an eraser.

Reading the actions and entries

Every time you are involved in an event or face a decision in your adventure, the text will ask you to go to an entry or an action.

Entries are numbered and lettered paragraphs that describe the physical areas of your adventure. They also describe events that occur in these areas. There are two main categories of entries: land encounters and sea encounters. The three types of land encounters are: Specularum (S) entries, urban (U) entries, and island exploration (E) entries. The three types of sea entries are: coastal (C) entries, trade route (T) entries, and voyage (V) entries.

Actions are numbered paragraphs that appear only in the interaction sequence. Actions describe the sequence of events you follow when you encounter wandering monsters. Be sure you don't confuse entries and actions. The text always tells you which of the two types you should be reading.

Each entry or action lists a series of options from which you may choose. When you come to an option that applies to your situation in the adventure, go to the indicated entry or action. For example, if you read entry C11 and decide to dock at the city of Thyatis (entry U4), you would turn to and read the paragraph numbered U4.

Keeping records

An Expedition Record Sheet and an NPC

Party Chart appear on the inside booklet cover. You will be using these sheets during your adventure to keep track of how much money and food you have, how many NPCs you have with you, how much time you have to complete your quest, and how much damage you take in combat. Be sure to use pencil when you fill out these sheets, as the numbers will change several times during play.

Use the NPC Party Chart to keep track of the number and type of party members accompanying you on your quest. The Specularum entries direct you to make additions to this chart.

Use the Expedition Record Sheet to keep track of your character's time limit, food rations, and hit points. The prerolled character descriptions provide you with some of this information. The Specularum (S) entries also direct you to make additions to this sheet. Following are explanations of some of this sheet's columns:

Days Remaining. Use this column to keep track of the number of days you have left to complete your quest. Subtract the appropriate number of days from this column each time the text directs you to do so.

Rations. Use this column to keep a running total of the number of food rations you have left to feed to your crew-members while on the adventure. Each of your crew-members eats 1 ration per day. The text will tell you when to make deductions from this column.

Your Hit Points. This value may change, depending on the outcome of any individual combat in which you take part.

Money & Treasure. All additions to this column are measured in gold pieces (gp). "Unrefined gold" refers to raw gold, while "gold pieces" refer to minted, refined coins. Make sure you subtract the proper amount from the column each time you pay out or lose money or treasure.

Hull Points. Record your ship's Hull point value in this space. Certain incidents may reduce your ship's Hull point value. Be sure to subtract the lost Hull points from this column.

Current Sea or Land Entry. Use these columns to record the sea or land entry you are reading when you go to the interaction sequence, or when you go from a sea entry (C, T, or V entries) to a land entry (S, U, or E entries). This recordkeeping process is a guard against losing your place in the adventure. Example: You are reading entry V47. You decide to land on the island mentioned in the entry. You record "V47" in the Current Sea Entry column and go to entry E1. After you have finished exploring the island, the text directs you back to your "current sea entry," which you would have recorded as being entry V47.

Using the ship's log

The solo adventure sections in this booklet are bounded on each side by a space marked "Ship's log." Reminders on recordkeeping and how to play certain entries are given here. You may also use the log to do arithmetic, and to make notes to yourself about a specific entry or direction.

You may write anything you wish in the ship's log. Some examples are: "Avoid E42," and "Sail east away from V101." These notes will come in especially handy when you decide to play the adventure again as a different player character.

Encountering wandering monsters

Entry text occasionally indicates that you should roll for a wandering monster encounter. Follow this sequence of events once you have determined that you encounter a wandering monster:

1. Roll 1d8 and add the modifier given in the sea or land entry. If you are reading voyage (V) entries, add 9 to your die roll.
2. Check Table 1 to determine which monster(s) you have encountered. If you encounter more than one monster, roll the appropriate dice to find out how many monsters are in the group. Record this number in the ship's log space next to the sea or land entry where you encountered the monster. If you encounter only 1 monster, record the monster leader's hit points in this space.
3. Record your current sea or land entry on the Expedition Record Sheet.
4. Go to the interaction sequence and read action 1. All wandering monster encounters are covered in this sequence.
5. When you have resolved the wandering monster encounter, record any treasure additions or party losses on your record sheets, and return to your current sea or land entry.

You and your party may use certain defeated monsters as rations. Table 2 lists the number of rations each defeated monster provides. You must use these rations on the same day you defeat the monster. If you cannot use all of the rations provided by the monster in one day, the unused portions are considered to be spoiled and inedible.

Using the interaction sequence

Use this section whenever you fight wandering monsters. Many choices are provided here. You may decide to try to talk to the monsters rather than fight them. If you do fight monsters, you may either fight them alone, send out a fighting party, or lead a fighting party of your own. Fighting parties can never be made up of more than a number equal to your Charisma score. Parties may be made up of either crew-members or mariners, but never both together.

Combat charts

Whenever the phrase, "consult the combat charts" appears in the interaction sequence, refer to the charts given on the inside module cover. Follow this sequence when determining the outcome of combat:

1. If a fighting party is attacking monsters, average the party members' Hit Dice and Armor Class values. You may do the math in the space next to the sea or land entry where you encountered the monsters. If you are fighting alone, use the Armor Class and Hit Dice values listed on your character sheet.

2. Go to the Attacker Chart. Cross-reference you or your party's Hit Dice with the number of attackers (1-18, monsters may have groups as large as 150). The result will be a letter.

3. Go to the Defender Chart. Cross-reference the monsters' Armor Class (taken from Table 1) with the number of monsters facing the party. This result will be a number.

4. Go to the Group Combat Chart if a fighting party is involved, or the Single Combat Chart if you are fighting alone. If a party is fighting a single monster, refer to the Single Combat Chart.

Cross-reference the results from the Attacker and Defender charts. On the Group Combat Chart, the result will be one of the following: A — all defenders defeated; N — no defenders defeated;  $\frac{1}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{3}{4}$  — a fraction of defenders defeated. When you subtract a fraction of a monster's group members, round the number of monsters to the nearest whole.

On the Single Combat Chart, the numbers given indicate the number of hit points the defender loses in the attack. If "N" is the result, the defender loses no hit points.

Optional: If you are fighting one monster, you may also include any extra hit point damage you cause by using a weapon. Use the Variable Weapon Damage Table (Expert rule book, p. 29) to see how much additional damage your weapon causes.

Subtract the number of monsters defeated, or subtract the hit points lost, from the notes you made in the ship's log. If the monster leader's hit points reach 0, the monster is defeated.

5. When monsters attack you or your party, repeat the process. Use the monsters' Hit Dice and number of attackers on the Attacker Chart, and use your party's average Armor Class and number of party members on the Defender Chart. If you're fighting alone and a monster hits you, the monster's damage modifier (DM) may also be added to the damage done to you.

Combat example

You are an elf, carrying a sword. You've determined that you are facing a group of 4 giant draco lizards. You decide to lead a party of 3 mariners in battle against the lizards.

Your party consists of two fighters and a magic-user. Average your combat values (AC 6, HD 4) with the party members' combat values (AC 2, HD 5; AC 2, HD 5; AC 9; HD 6). Your average combat values are: AC 5, HD 5.

You attack the lizards! Cross-reference the "4-7" row on the Attacker Chart with the "4 to 5" column. The result is "G."

Go to the Defender Chart and cross-reference the lizard's Armor Class (5) with the number of lizards in the group (4). The result is "7."

Go to the Group Combat Chart. Cross-reference the "G" with the "7." The result is " $\frac{3}{4}$ " Three of the four lizards have been defeated.

The remaining lizard now attacks your party. Use the lizard leader's statistics (given on Table 1) from now on.

Go to the Attacker Chart. Cross-reference the lizard's Hit Dice (4+ to 5) with the number of attackers (1). The result is "E." On the Defender Chart, reference the party's Armor Class (5) with the number of defenders (4-7).

Rules and Guidelines

The result is "7."

On the Group Combat Chart, the result of cross-referencing G and 7 is "1/2." Two members of your party have been defeated. After reading the next action, you discover that you survive the attack. However, you must decide which two party members you must subtract from your party.

If you subtract the magic-user and one of the fighters, your party's new combat values are now AC 4, HD 5. You attack the lizard. Your Attacker Chart result is "F." The lizard's Defender Chart result is "5." Cross-reference these results on the Single Combat Chart, as there is only one defender. The result is "16."

You may also add your sword's variable weapon damage (1-8) to this result. You roll a 6. You have inflicted 22 (16 + 6) hit points of damage. The lizard leader only had 17 hit points. You have defeated the lizard! Now you may collect the lizard's treasure and return to your current sea or land entry.

The interaction sequence

1. Record your current sea or land entry. When you encounter wandering monsters, you may choose to fight or not to fight. If you are going to fight, read action 2. If you are not going to fight, read action 78.

2. You may fight wandering monsters alone, or you may fight monsters as a party. If you want to fight alone, read action 3.

You may decide to lead fighting parties, or you may send them out on their own. If you lead a fighting party of crew-members, read action 39. If you lead a party of mariners, read action 40.

If you send out crew-members and stay behind, read action 41. If you send out mariners and stay behind, read action 42. You cannot send out a fighting party that is a mixture of crew-members and mariners.

3. Groups of wandering monsters always have leaders. If you can defeat the group's leader, the other monsters become demoralized and will flee. If the monster you are fighting is:

- a medusa, read action 4.
- a pit viper, read action 5.
- a flame salamander, read action 6.
- an insect swarm, read action 7.
- a flying hydra, read action 8.
- a harpy, read action 9.
- a salt water termite, read action 10.
- a sea snake, read action 11.
- a ghoulish skeleton, read action 12.
- another monster, read action 13.

4. You must make a saving throw vs. turn to stone. If you fail, your joints begin to stiffen, your arms begin to feel heavy, and Paco says, "nice statue." Read action 29.

If your saving throw succeeds, you may either fight the medusa (action 11) or retreat (action 27).

5. The monster attacks you! Consult the combat charts. If the monster hits you, read action 31. If the monster missed you, you may either fight it (action 11) or retreat (action 27).

6. If you are a cleric, elf, or magic-user, or if you have a magic weapon, read action 13. Otherwise, read action 19.

7. A swarm of insects buzzes around your head! You can try to run through or swat at the swarm with a weapon (action 21), stand in the swarm and swat with your hands (action 22), or retreat (action 23).

8. You attack the flying hydra! Consult the combat charts. If you defeat the hydra, read action 30. If you do not defeat it, read action 24.

9. You must make a saving throw vs. spells. If you fail, you are overcome by a sudden, uncontrollable urge to dive into the sea. Within seconds, you run out of air and pass out. Read action 14.

If your saving throw succeeds, you may either fight the harpy (action 13) or retreat (action 18).

10. You attack the termite! Consult the combat charts. If you hit the termite, read action 15. If you miss, read action 16.

11. You attack the monster! Consult the combat charts. If you defeat the monster, read action 30. If you do not defeat it, read action 5.

12. If you are a cleric, you automatically turn this undead creature! Read action 30. If you are not a cleric, you must fight the creature. If it is a ghoulish skeleton, read action 13.

13. You attack the monster! Consult the combat charts. If you defeat the monster, read action 30. If not, read action 17.

14. You wake, coughing up water and trying to breathe. A small herd of dolphins has pinned your arms to your sides. You are too weak to fight the friendly beasts as they push you through the waves. Many hours later, the beasts nudge you toward a small island. They gently shove you into shallow water and swim away. Your ship, holding your party and possessions, is nowhere to be seen. Read action 119.

15. You have defeated the salt water termite! Read action 30.

16. The salt water termites attack your ship, causing 1d6 points of hull damage. Subtract this damage from the ship's Hull points. Return to your current sea or land entry.

17. The monster attacks you! Consult the combat charts. If your hit points reach 0, read action 29. If you have not been defeated, you may either continue fighting (action 13), or you may retreat (action 18).

18. The monster attacks you as you retreat. Consult the combat charts. If your hit points reach 0, read action 29. If you have not been defeated, read action 1.

19. Normal weapons do no damage to flame salamanders. The flame salamander attacks you! Consult the combat charts. If your hit points reach 0, read action 29. If you have not been defeated, you may either continue fighting (action 20), or you may retreat (action 18).

20. Paco screams, "Flee! Flee!" If you heed the parrot's warning, read action 18. If not, read action 19.

21. You take 1 hit point of damage from the insect swarm, but you have defeated them. Return to your current sea or land entry.

22. You take 2 hit points of damage from the insect swarm. Read action 7.

23. You take 1 hit point of damage from the insect swarm, but you have escaped! Return to your current sea or land entry.

24. Roll 3d6. If the number rolled is greater than your Dexterity score, read action 25. If the number rolled is less than or equal to your Dexterity score, you may either continue fighting the hydra (action 8), or you may retreat (action 26).

25. The flying hydra swoops down and picks you up in one of its mouths. Its huge, crushing teeth pin your arms to your sides. You try to fight back as the monster glides over the ocean. Many hours later, the flying hydra drops you on a sandy beach. The fall does not harm you, although the hydra's grip has left you bruised and sore. The hydra wheels away, leaving you alone. Your ship, holding your party and possessions, is nowhere to be seen. Read action 119.

26. Roll 4d6. If the number rolled is greater than your Dexterity score, read action 25. If the number rolled is less than or equal to your Dexterity score, read action 1.

27. The monster attacks you as you retreat!

Rules and Guidelines

Consult the combat charts. If the monster hits you, read action 28. If the monster misses you, read action 1.

28. You must make a saving throw vs. poison. If you fail, read action 29. If you succeed, check to see how many hit points you lost in the monster's last attack. If your hit points reach 0, read action 29. If you have not been defeated, read action 1.

29. Your character is defeated. Paco carries your ship's log back to Specularum.

You may now select a new player character to try to complete the defeated character's goal, or you may select a new adventure for your new character (go to the Prerolled characters section).

30. Consult Table 2 to see what the defeated monsters have left behind.

The monster has been defeated. If this encounter took place at the dock of a city or on the shore of an island, you may land. If not, you may pass. Return to your current sea or land entry.

Using magic

Certain player characters may use magical spells on their solo adventures. Use the following guidelines when casting magical spells:

* You may cast a spell whenever you are fighting alone during the interaction sequence. If the sequence indicates that it is your turn to attack, you may cast a spell instead of using the combat charts.

* You may cast a charm person spell when you are in an urban area recruiting party members.

Some spell's effects have been altered to suit this adventure. Each spell may be used only once per day.

First level magic-user and elf spells

Charm person. This spell may affect one living bandit, buccaneer, cleric, dwarf, elf, fighter, ogre, pirate, thief, or trader. The victim makes a saving throw vs. spells. If the saving throw succeeds, the spell has no effect.

If the saving throw fails and:

the victim is a merman or ogre leader, the leader and his followers do not attack.

Only the leader gives you its treasure.

the victim is a bandit, buccaneer, or pirate leader, the leader and his followers join your party at no cost, if you want them.

the victim is a cleric, dwarf, elf, fighter, halfling, or thief, the victim joins your party at no cost, if you want him.

Sleep. This spell only affects 2d8 Hit Dice of the following: bandits, blink dogs, buccaneers, harpies, medusas, mermen, ogres, pirates, pit vipers, salt water termites, sea snakes, stirges, and traders. No saving throws are allowed. If the victim is a wandering monster leader, the leader is defeated and all of his followers flee.

Second level magic-user and elf spells

Continual light. You may cast this spell at any one creature's eyes. The victim must make a saving throw vs. spells. If the saving throw fails, the victim is blinded and defeated. If the saving throw succeeds, the globe of light appears, but the intended victim suffers no ill effects.

Levitate. You may cast this spell on yourself when you are retreating during the interaction sequence. If the monster you are fleeing cannot fly, go to action 1. The spell has no effect if the monster you are fleeing can fly.

You may also use this spell to scout out the surrounding area when you are at sea. You may read ahead to the entries listed in your current sea entry without actually sailing to any of the entries.

First level clerical spells

Cure light wounds. You may cast this spell on yourself to heal 1d6.1 points of damage, or to immediately remove the effects of a failed saving throw vs. paralysis. You cannot use the spell for both effects at the same time, nor can you heal yourself to a hit point total greater than your original total.

Purify food and water. You may use this spell to purify up to 21 worm and beetle-infested rations. you may also make rations provided by a monster you defeated last more than 1 day.

Second level clerical spells

Hold person. You may use this spell to paralyze up to four bandits, buccaneers, mermen, ogres, pirates, thieves, or traders. Victims must make saving throws vs. spells. A penalty of -2 is assessed to a single victim's saving throw. Each paralyzed victim is considered to be defeated. If the victim is a wandering monster leader, all of his followers flee.

Snake charm. A fifth level cleric may cast this spell, which causes two pit vipers or one sea snake to rise up and sway. The snakes do not attack. (The pit viper, however, always gets to attack before the spell can be cast.) If the victim is a wandering monster leader, the leader is defeated and all of his followers flee.

TO BEGIN YOUR FIRST ADVENTURE, READ
"LATHAN'S QUEST" IN THE PREROLLED CHARACTERS SECTION.

PREROLLED CHARACTERS

Lathan Lancehand
Fourth level elf

Hero/Magician
AC 4; HD 4

Strength	12	Dexterity	9
Intelligence	17	Constitution	10
Wisdom	11	Charisma	15

Hit points: 18 (Record this number at the top of Your Hit Points column on the Expedition Record Sheet.)

Equipment: chain mail armor and shield; sword +1 (magical, does 1d8+1 points of damage in single combat)

Possessions: Paco, the talking parrot; ship's log

Spells:

First level: charm person, sleep

Second level: continual light, levitate

Languages: Common, Neutral, Giant, Harpy

Lathan's quest: Your betrothed, the lovely Alandah, has been kidnapped by the evil Baron Ludwig von Hendriks. The baron requires a ransom in unrefined gold equal in weight to the kidnapped Alandah: 1,000 coins' weight (1,000 gp). You must take the ransom to the baron in Fort Doom in a certain number of days, or you will never see Alandah alive again.

Roll 1d20 and add 30 to the result. Write this number at the top of the Days Remaining column on your Expedition Record Sheet. You must bring the unrefined gold back to the baron before this number of days has passed.

The baron has left word of a burning mountain in the Sea of Dread that produces streams of unrefined gold. He wants you to find the mountain for him. The only problem is that you don't know exactly where the mountain is.

You have borrowed 750 gp to finance your expedition. Add 750 gp to the Money & Treasure column on your Expedition Record Sheet. You must find a sea captain who has a ship, rations, crew, and navigator.

To help you on your quest, an old woman of your village has given you her talking parrot and a leather-bound book. The woman was once a seafarer, and she assures you that Paco and the ship's log will help guide you on your journey.

You may write anything you wish in the ship's log. If you are defeated, Paco carries the log, filled with your notes, back to Specularum.

You start your adventure in one of 11 possible locations inside the city of Specularum. Roll 2d6 to determine which "S" entry you read first. For example, if you roll 9, read entry S9.

If Lathan is defeated before he can complete his quest, you may choose one of the following prerolled player characters to take his place.

You may choose to complete Lathan's quest, if he has been defeated, or you may try to fulfill the quest given for each player character. You will always have Paco and the ship's log to guide you, no matter which quest you choose.

When you begin a new adventure using another character, roll 2d6 to determine which "S" entry you read first.

Possessions: Paco, the talking parrot; ship's log

Languages: Common, Neutral, Medusa, Mermen

Elrem's quest: Your people are not a seafaring race, but they do have foresight. Because of other races' rapid population growth, Rockhome's borders are shrinking. Your elders realize that your people may one day need more land.

It is rumored that the Isle of Dread is large, mountainous, and unpopulated. You are a scout being sent to locate the infamous island.

You have been given 1,000 gp for your expedition. Your quest is to explore the Isle of Dread and return to Specularum in 35 days. If you do not return, another scout will be sent out and you will be disgraced.

Spells:

First level: cure light wounds, purify

food and water
Second level: hold person, snake charm

Languages: Common, Lawful, Giant, Mermen

Octave's quest: Your diminishing order has learned of an ancient holy shrine called the Temple of Araknee. Members of your order believe that if the temple is found before the next new moon rises, your order will survive and flourish.

Ancient doctrine indicates that those who search for the temple should sail to the Three Sisters Keys and sacrifice their ship to the Dragon's Teeth. If the searchers survive this sacrifice, they are to intone the Three Sisters, who will send them to Spider Isle.

You must find the Temple of Araknee before the new moon rises (28 days away) or your order will disband forever.

The order gives you 500 gp and tells you to rely on your own abilities and the goodness of others in order to complete your quest.

Possessions: Paco, the talking parrot; ship's log

Languages: Common, Neutral, Mermen

Special bonus: Add 2 points of damage for every hit made in single combat

Kuat's quest: Since you were a child, you have heard stories of the war against the merpeople. Now that you are an experienced fighter, you want to find out if the legends of the Aquapopulus War are true.

One legend tells of a battle in which merpeople surrounded and fought your people on a small island in the Sea of Dread. You have decided to seek out this battlefield.

You have saved up 600 gp and you expect to find more to finance your search party. A friend of yours in Specularum has wagered that you cannot find the battlefield and return in 20 days or less. If you find the battlefield and return to Specularum in that time, the reward of 1,500 gp is yours.

Spells:

First level: charm person, sleep
Second level: continual light, levitate

Languages: Common, Neutral, Giant, Harpy, Medusa

Suparjo's quest: Legend tells of rare seven-headed hydras in the Malpoggi Swamp and the Sea of Dread. You wish to see for yourself if these mythical beasts really exist. You have saved 650 gp to finance your expedition. If 90 days pass and you still have not seen one of the fabulous beasts, you have failed and you must return to Specularum to continue your magical research.

Krag Skraddle	Sharper

SHIP'S LOG

Special procedures

Reading entries: Some entries use a form of shorthand to remind you about recordkeeping and to direct you to your next entry.

For example, an entry might read, "You may spend another day on the shore of the isle (entry E6, 1 day)." If you decide to stay another day, you would subtract 1 day from the Days Remaining column and 1 ration for each party member from the Rations column on your Expedition Record Sheet. You would then read entry E6.

Exploring the city: No map of the city of Specularum has been provided. You will have to explore the city and establish landmarks if you want to find your way from location to location.

Special monster encounters: If you encounter wandering monsters on an island of the Thanegioth Archipelago, you encounter twice the rolled number of monsters. If you encounter wandering monsters on the Isle of Dread, you encounter three times the rolled number of monsters.

Becoming stranded: Any time you are on an island or in a city, there is a chance that you will be stranded without a ship or crew. If this happens, you must stay at the edge of the water (dockside in a city, the beach on an island) and repeat the actions of the same land entry until you have a wandering monster encounter that involves friendly traders. If you have enough money, you can then hire the traders and rent their ship. You may then continue your quest.

Specularum entries

S1. What a coward! You have just left town. If you want to choose a new player character and quest, you may do so now. If you decide to go ahead with your current quest, return to Specularum through the northeast gate (entry S2).

S2. The trail from the northeast gate least to Krakatos, northeast of Specularum. The trail becomes a street at the gate and leads southwest to the Hippogriff Inn.

You may end your adventure by leaving Specularum (entry S1), or you may approach the Hippogriff Inn (entry S17).

S3. You are locked behind bars in a reeking jail cell. City guards have taken away your weapons.

You must pay a fine, or you will be imprisoned for 1d10 days. If you want to pay the fine, read entry S14. If you do not pay the fine, read entry S15.

If you are a thief, you may try to escape from the jail. If you want to escape, read entry S13.

S4. You are in the Golden Coin Gambling House. Select the amount of money (in gold pieces) that you want to wager. Subtract the gold from your Expedition Record Sheet.

Roll percentile dice and refer to Table 4 to see if you win.

You may gamble as often as you like. When you decide to leave the gambling house, read entry S16.

GAMBLING RESULTS

Dice Roll	Result
01-60	You lose!
61-87	You break even.
88-96	You win twice what you bet!
97-99	You win 5 times what you bet!
00	You win 10 times what you bet!

S5. You are in the armorer's shop. The armorer is a tough looking character who does not buy any used armor or weapons.

If you aren't going to buy any armor, weapons, or shields, read entry S26.

A cleric may buy any of the following weapons: mace (5 gp); club (3 gp); sling and 30 stones (2 gp); war hammer (5 gp). He may also buy a shield (10 gp) and any type of armor.

A dwarf may buy any of the following weapons: short bow and 20 arrows (30 gp); normal dagger (3 gp); short sword (7 gp); sling and 30 stones (2 gp). He may buy a shield and any type of armor.

The dwarf may also buy the following: two-handed battle axe (7 gp); hand axe (4 gp); light crossbow and 30 quarrels (40 gp); normal sword (10 gp); two-handed polearm (7 gp); spear (3 gp); shield (10 gp); and any type of armor.

A magic-user may buy a normal dagger (3 gp), but he may not buy a shield or any armor.

A thief may buy any missile weapon, but no two-handed weapons. He may buy leather armor (20 gp), but he may not buy a shield.

A fighter and elf may buy any of the weapons listed above. He may also buy chain mail armor (40 gp), plate mail armor (60 gp), and a shield (10 gp).

When you are finished buying weapons and armor, read entry S26.

S6. You are in the Hippogriff Inn. You must pay 1 gp if you want a meal and a place to sleep for the night. If you stay, read entry S37. If you do not stay, read entry S17.

S7. Three main avenues intersect here at the city well. A signpost stands beside the well.

You may travel in any of the following directions: north to the Hippogriff Inn (entry S17) northeast to the Golden Coin Gambling House (entry S16)

SHIP'S LOG

Remember to record any weapons or armor you buy on the sheet that lists your character's statistics and equipment.

Subtract the proper number of gold pieces from the Money & Treasure column every time you spend money during the adventure.

You may want to make a map of the city of Specularum, based on the directions you choose and the entries you read.

northwest to the Capital Armorer (entry S26) south to the marketplace (entry S18) southeast to the Grog Shoppe (entry S19) southwest to Ceesalt the Sage (entry S24)

S8. You are in the Specularum marketplace. If you aren't buying any rations, read entry S18. Each ration you buy here costs 1 gp. You may buy as many rations as you can afford. The merchants deliver the rations to your ship at no extra charge, as they know adventurers are usually quite wealthy. The merchants want the return business.

For each ration you buy, subtract 1 gp from the Money & Treasure column and add 1 ration to the Rations column on the Expedition Record Sheet.

When you are finished buying rations, read entry S18.

S9. You are in the Grog Shoppe. If you aren't going to hire marines here, you're not welcome. Read entry S19.

Before you can try to hire a marine (any character class except magic-user), you must pay 1 gp for a round of drinks. Once you buy the marines a drink, you may hire each marine for 3 gp.

Roll 1d12. This value is the number of each type of marine that is available here. The marines you hire will be on your ship when you sail.

For each marine you hire, subtract 3 gp from the Money & Treasure column and add a tally mark in the proper box on the NPC Party Chart.

You wake up the next morning in the gutter outside the Grog Shoppe. Subtract 1 day from the Days Remaining column on your Expedition Record Sheet and read entry S19.

S10. Standing among ancient astronomy charts and nautical maps is the wise young man known as Ceesalt the Sage.

"For a price, I will give you directions to any site in the Sea of Dread," says the sage. "My price changes with the information desired. I cannot tell you anything about cities or ports, I'm afraid."

If you leave the sage, read entry S24.

If you want the sage's advice, roll 2d10. Pay the man this number of gold pieces in coin or unrefined gold. Subtract the gold pieces from the Money & Treasure column on the Expedition Record Sheet.

Ceesalt can tell you about the following sites:

- Burning Mountain (entry S20)
- Temple of Araknee (entry S21)
- Battlefield of the Aquapopulus War (entry S22)
- Isle of Dread (entry S23)
- Three Sisters Keys (entry S25)

S11. You are in the Tavern-on-the-Shore. Many sea captains come to this comfortable, old tavern to trade stories and relax after long voyages.

If you do not stay, read entry S27.

You may talk to any one of the following characters in the tavern:

- normal man (entry S28)
- cleric (entry S29)
- fighter (entry S30)
- thief (entry S31)
- elf (entry S32)
- halfling (entry S33)

S12. Several ships manned by full crews are docked here at the city wharf. A ship sets sail from the wharf if you hire its captain in the Tavern-on-the-Shore.

You may purchase a used ship's lifeboat here for 100 gp. Each lifeboat comes with 70 rations and a collapsible mast. The lifeboat has 15 Hull points. If you buy the lifeboat, subtract the gold pieces from the Money & Treasure column and add 70 to the Rations column on the Expedition Record Sheet.

You may leave the wharf on foot (entry S34), or you may sail out of the wharf on a ship (entry C1).

S13. Your thieving abilities allow you to escape at night. Subtract 1 day from the Days Remaining column on the Expedition Record Sheet.

You may flee southeast (entry S17) or south (entry S26).

S14. Roll percentile dice. You are fined this number of gold pieces. Subtract the gold pieces from the Money & Treasure column on the Expedition Record Sheet.

You may hike southeast (entry S17) or south (entry S26).

S15. Roll 1d10. You spend this number of days in jail. Subtract this number of days from the Days Remaining column on the Expedition Record Sheet.

You may travel southeast (entry S17) or south (entry S26).

S16. The Golden Coin Gambling House stands before you. If you enter, read entry S4.

You may travel northwest (entry S17) or south (entry S19).

S17. You are in front of the Hippogriff Inn. If you go inside, read entry S6.

You may travel in any of the following directions:
northwest (entry S35) southeast (entry S16)
southwest (entry S26)

S18. A busy marketplace stands before you. If you want to buy rations, read entry S8.

You may travel in any of the following directions:
north (entry S7) northeast (entry S19)
northwest (entry S24) southeast (entry S27)
southwest (entry S34)

peninsula to a small village. Then you sail the trade routes to a tiny village in the Minrothad Guilds—and you'd better have a captain along!

"Sail south for 5 days, then east for 2 days," the sage continues, "This way, you'll avoid the deadly cloud that eventually leads you to the mountain.

"This sounds familiar, adventurer. Has the baron sent you on this quest? If so, you might wish to sail to Fort Doom first. There you may ask the baron for more time to complete your task," advises Ceesalt. "Of course, the baron may refuse and command a greater price." Read entry S10.

S21. "You must leave the coast and sail toward Ierendi," the sage says. "From Ierendi, sail 7 days south and 1 day east." Read entry S10.

S22. "So you want to find this ancient place," the sage begins. "You must leave the coast and sail toward Ierendi. From Ierendi, sail south until you hear the dragon roar, then turn west. But beware the Dragon's Teeth," warns Ceesalt. Read entry S10.

S23. "A terrible place, the Isle of Dread," the sage says. "But if you really want to go there, I shall tell you the way.

"Leave the coast and sail toward Ierendi," Ceesalt begins. "You will first come to a small village on an island in the Kingdom of Ierendi. From this village, sail south until you see the islands of the Thanegioth Archipelago. Then sail 1 day west. Do not stay long or you will surely perish!" Read entry S10.

S24. You are outside the home of Ceesalt the Sage. If you enter, read entry S10.

You may travel in any of the following directions:
north (entry S26)      northeast (entry S7)
southeast (entry S18)

S25. Ceesalt stares at you in disbelief. "You do not really wish to go to this place," he warns. "But you have paid for the information.

"To reach these keys, you must travel over the Dragon's Teeth reef," the sage says. "Few traders have ever returned from there. Leave the coast and sail toward Ierendi. At Ierendi, sail south for either 5 or 6 days and then turn west. Sail toward the sound of thunder and, if you do not perish, you will come to one of the Three Sisters Keys." Read entry S10.

SHIP'S LOG

Remember to record your current land entry on the Expedition Record Sheet if you are going to turn to the interaction sequence for a wandering monster encounter.

Make sure you record any rations you buy on your Expedition Record Sheet, and add any hired crewmembers to your NPC Party Chart. Finally, don't forget to subtract the gold pieces spent on these transactions from the Money & Treasure column.

may spend another day at the village (entry U2, 1 day).

U7. Hundreds of Baron von Hendrik's men surround you. "Is your name Lathan?" one of the men barks. If yes, read entry U9. If not, all thieves in your party jump ship and join the baron's men. Subtract all thieves from the NPC Party Chart and read entry U10.

U8. In the capital, you may hire a captain (cleric, elf, fighter, halfling, normal man, or thief) for 250 gp, and you may hire a navigator (cleric, elf, fighter, magic-user, normal man, or thief) for 150 gp. You may also repair 1-144 points of damage to your hull at a cost of 100 gp per Hull point.

Roll 1d10. You may hire this number of crew-members (dwarves, elves, fighters, halflings, and normal members) for 6 gp each. You may also hire this number of marines (clerics, dwarves, elves, fighters, halflings, normal men, and thieves) for 4 gp each. You may also buy 10 times this number of rations at 2 gp each.

You return to your ship. You may leave the dock immediately, returning to your current sea entry, or you may spend another day in the capital (entry U4, 1 day).

U9. You are escorted under heavy guard directly into the baron's throneroom. If you have the required amount of unrefined gold, read entry U11. If not, read entry U12.

U10. "Have you come for Alandah?" shouts a guard. If you answer yes, read entry U19. If you answer no, or if you do not answer, read entry U20.

U11. Did you return with the ransom before you ran out of time? If yes, read entry U13. If no, read entry U14.

U12. The baron laughs, "So you have come to ask for more time, eh?"

Roll 3d6. If the total is greater than your Charisma score, the baron requires you to bring additional ransom. Roll 1d4 and multiply the current ransom required by this number. The baron now insists that you bring this new amount of unrefined gold in order to rescue Alandah. Read entry U15.

If your dice roll total is less than or equal to your Charisma score, the baron grants you additional time to complete your quest. Roll 1d20 and add this number to the number of days you have remaining to fulfill your quest. Read entry U15.

U13. The baron asks, "Have you brought the required ransom?" You hand the baron the ransom.

If one or more thieves was aboard your ship when you reached Fort Doom, read entry U17. If no thieves were aboard your ship, read entry U18.

U14. The baron thunders, "You are late, adventurer! Fortunately, I spared your precious Alandah. As a penalty for keeping me waiting, you must defeat one of my champions—if you want to see your Alandah alive!"

The baron's guards form a circle of spears around you and the leader of the baron's bandits. This will be a fight to the finish. You may not retreat. Go to action 13 of the interaction sequence.

If you defeat the bandit leader, read entry U13.

U15. "Be gone!" the baron shouts. "Your time is passing. Do not expect me to be as merciful next time."

You return to your ship. You may leave the dock immediately, returning to your current sea entry. You may spend another day at Fort Doom (entry U3, 1 day).

U16. "You displease me, adventurer," the baron grumbles. "Perhaps combat will loosen your tongue."

The baron's guards form a circle of spears around you and the leader of a pirate band. This will be a fight to the finish. You may not retreat. Go to action 13 of the interaction sequence.

If you defeat the pirate leader, read entry U17.

U17. "My spies aboard your ship report that you have indeed done well, adventurer," compliments von Hendriks. "You have kept your end of the bargain, and now I will keep mine. Guards! Bring him Alandah."

"My guards will escort you both safely past the Haunted Keep and will take you to Kelven."

The guards bring Alandah forth and escort you both home. You have succeeded in your quest by rescuing Alandah.

Paco flies toward Specularum, clutching your ship's log in his talons. If you wish to play again, choose another player character and read that character's adventure background.

U18. "Tell me where you found this gold!" the baron demands.

If you tell him the truth, read entry U17. If you lie to the baron, or if you do not answer him, read entry U16.

U19. You are escorted under heavy guard directly into the baron's throneroom. "So Lathan is defeated, eh? Perhaps you should prove your worthiness for this quest by fighting one of my champions."

The baron's guards form a circle of spears around you and the leader of a band of buccaneers. This will be a fight to the finish. You may not retreat. Go to action 13 of the interaction sequence.

If you defeat the buccaneer leader, read entry U21.

U20. "It is forbidden to enter Fort Doom!" shouts a guard.

You must return to your ship. You may leave the dock immediately, returning to your current sea entry, or you may spend another day at the dock (entry U3, 1 day).

You may want to make notes on what you encounter when you go in different directions on the Burning Mountain.

You may continue to climb uphill (entry E39).
You may flee downhill (entry E38).
You may circle to the east (entry E35).
You may circle to the west (entry E37).

E35. Thunderlike rumbles peal from the peak above you. As you climb among ferns and sharp, hot rocks, the glint of gold catches your eye. A scalding stream of raw gold seeps from a crack in the stone.

The rivulet of gold stops, and the molten metal begins hardening. You can pry the small lump of unrefined gold from the rocks. Multiply 1d10 by 100 gp. This number represents the value of the golden lump.

You may climb downhill (entry E38).
You may circle to the north (entry E34).
You may circle to the south (entry E36).
You may climb to the peak (entry E40).

E36. Ash and smoke billow from the peak. Suddenly, the mountainside above you bulges outward, and bright red lava bursts down the slope toward you.

Roll 3d6. If the total is greater than your Dexterity score, you take 2d10 points of damage from burns. If your hit points reach 0, read action 29. If you are accompanied by an exploring party, you lose half of its members to the river of lava.

You may climb downhill (entry E38).
You may circle to the north (entry E34).
You may circle to the south (entry E36).
You may climb to the peak (entry E40).

If your dice roll total is less than or equal to your Dexterity score, you scramble out of the way (east — entry E35; west — entry E37). You lose no party members.

E37. A sudden downdraft brings a thick blanket of ash plunging down to smother you.

You must make a saving throw vs. poison. If you fail, read action 29. If you succeed, all party members with you are poisoned and collapse. They are all dead. Subtract the defeated party members from the NPC Party Chart.

You may climb to the peak (entry E40).

If the dice roll total is less than or equal to your Dexterity score, you avoid falling boulders. If you are accompanied by an exploring party, you lose 1d10 members in the avalanche.

You may continue climbing to the peak (entry E40).
You may circle to the east (entry E35).
You may circle to the west (entry E37).
You may climb downhill (entry E38).

E40. A fiery crater of molten rock lies before you. A huge, gray plume rises from the center of the crater and blows west. Bits of gold glisten around the lip of the crater. A hardened lump of unrefined gold is splattered on the rock. You can break the lump off the rimrock. This lump is worth 1d10 times 100 gp.

You may climb down the north face of the mountain (entry E34).

You may climb down the east face (entry E35).
You may climb down the south face (entry E36).
You may climb down the west face (entry E37).

SHIP'S LOG

Special procedures

Reading the entries: Many of the entries given here use a form of shorthand to remind you about recordkeeping and to direct you to your next entry. Most entries list a set of directions in which you may sail. For example, an entry might read, "north — entry V31, east — entry V40." If you sail north, you would read entry V31. If you sail east, you would read entry V40.

Some entries also list the number of days it takes to sail in a specific direction and arrive at a new entry. Make sure you subtract that number of days from the Days Remaining column and that number of rations per party member from the Rations column on your Expedition Record Sheet.

Special monster encounters: If you encounter wandering monsters in the Thanegioth Archipelago, you encounter twice the rolled number of monsters.

Recording entries: Whenever the text gives you a choice of going to an "S," "U," or "E" entry, make sure you record your current sea entry on your Expedition Record Sheet before going on to the new land entry.

Coastal entries

C1. You cast off the mooring lines and push away from the dock. Your ship is sailing toward the passage between the two breakwaters that protect the harbor. Read entry C2.

THE SOLO ADVENTURE

Sea encounters

SHIP'S LOG

SHIP'S LOG

T28. You are just outside Zeaburg. You may dock here (entry U4).

You may sail the trade routes toward Norrvik (captain aboard — entry C28, 3 days; no captain aboard — entry E15, 3 days).

You may sail the trade routes toward Soderfjord (captain aboard — entry C23, 4 days; no captain aboard — entry E15, 3 days).

You may sail away from the trade routes (entry E15, 3 days).

Voyage entries

Order of events. Follow this sequence for each voyage entry you read:

1. Read the entry you have chosen. Before going on to the next entry, allow your character and his party to study and change any spells that they wish. Note any spell changes on your character sheet. If you want, you may record any distinguishing features about this location in your ship's log.

2. Check to see if your party encounters a wandering monster. Roll 1d6. If you roll a 6, you encounter a monster. Go to Table 1 and roll 1d8+9.

If your party encounters no monsters, skip to step 4.

3. Go to the interaction sequence to resolve the wandering monster encounter.

4. If you have a navigator aboard, skip to step 5. If you have no navigator aboard, you must check to see if your party becomes lost.

Roll 1d6. On a roll of 1, your party becomes lost. If you do not roll a 1, skip to step 5.

Check to see if your current sea entry tells you where to go if you become lost. If it doesn't, decide which direction in which you want to try to go.

If you go north, subtract 9 from your current sea entry number and go to the new sea entry. If you go south, subtract 10 from your current sea entry number and go to the new sea entry. If you go east or west, stay at your current sea entry.

5. Choose your next sea or land entry from the choices given in your current sea entry.

If you are drifting, subtract 10 from your current sea entry number and go to the new sea entry.

6. Go to your Expedition Record Sheet. Unless an entry directs otherwise, subtract 1 day from the Days Remaining column. You should also subtract 1 ration per party member from the Rations column.

7. As long as you are reading voyage (V) entries, repeat this process. Go back to step 1.

V01, V02. Your vessel is smashing against the rocks of the Dragon's Teeth Reef. If you are aboard a ship, the reef tears away the bottom of the ship. You lose all rations and treasure. If you are drifting on wreckage, nothing else happens.

If your Armor Class is 4 or lower, read entry V134. If your Armor Class is higher than 4, read entry V132.

V03, V04, V05, V06. Your vessel is smashing against the rocks of the Dragon's Teeth Reef. If you are aboard a ship, the reef tears away the bottom of the ship. You lose all rations and treasure. If you are drifting on wreckage, nothing else happens.

If your Armor Class is 4 or lower, read entry V135. If your Armor Class is higher than 4, read entry V131.

V07. Your vessel is smashing against the rocks of the Dragon's Teeth Reef. If you are aboard a ship, the reef tears away the bottom of the ship. You lose all rations and treasure. If you are drifting on wreckage, nothing else happens. Read entry V10.

V08, V09. Your vessel is smashing against the rocks of the Dragon's Teeth Reef. If you are aboard a ship, the reef tears away the bottom of the ship. You lose all rations and treasure. If you are drifting on wreckage, nothing else happens.

If your Armor Class is 4 or lower, read entry V136. If your Armor Class is higher than 4, read entry V100.

V10. Roll 3d6. If the total is greater than your Dexterity score, you're unable to remove your heavy armor before drowning. Read action 29.

If the dice roll total is less than or equal to your Dexterity score, you're able to remove your armor. You also lose your shield (if you had one), and you float to the surface. You are unconscious, and your Armor Class is now 9. You've lost your entire party. Subtract all party members from the NPC Party Chart. Read action 119.

V11. Your vessel is smashing against the rocks of the Dragon's Teeth Reef. If you are aboard a ship, the reef tears away the bottom of the ship. You lose all rations and treasure. If you are drifting on wreckage, nothing else happens.

If your Armor Class is 4 or lower, read entry V134. If your Armor Class is higher than 4, read entry V132.

V12. You are sailing just off the shore of a small, tropical coral island. The sound of surf roars to the west and south. Paco says, "Skeleton key!" If you land on the island, read entry E8.

north — V13, 1 day      east — V22, 1 day
south — V11, 1 day      west — V02, 1 day

V13. A small tropical island lies to the south. The sound of surf roars to the west. Paco chirps, "Breaker, breaker. Bad water!"

north — V14, 1 day      east — V23, 1 day
south — V12, 1 day      west — V03, 1 day

V14. A small tropical island rises to the west. Surf pounds against its shores. Paco flaps his wings and whistles, "Big reef! Danger!"

north — V15, 1 day      east — V24, 1 day
south — V13, 1 day      west — V04, 1 day

Voyage entry order of events:

1. Read entry.
2. Check for wandering monsters.
3. Go to the interaction sequence if you do encounter monsters.
4. If you have no navigator, check to see if you become lost.
5. Go to your next sea or land entry.
6. Subtract 1 day's time and rations from your Expedition Record Sheet.
7. Repeat the order of events if you are still reading voyage (V) entries.

V90. You are just off the shore of an island in the Thanegioth Archipelago. The island's shoreline runs off to the west. Huge storm clouds fill the eastern sky. A steady grinding sound comes from the north. Paco covers his head with a wing and shrieks, "Maelstrom. Beware!" If you are adrift, read entry V91. If you land on the island before you, read entry E10.

north — V91, 1 day      east — V101, 1 day
west — V90, 1 day

V91. Strong currents draw you into a shattered mass of flotsam, which swirls around the center of a massive whirlpool. If you are on a ship, the ship's hull is crushed, and you are dragged down into the whirlpool. If you are drifting on wreckage, you are pulled into the swirling mass.

Shredded sails and snapped ropes whip around in the vortex, preventing you from flying or levitating away. You sink swiftly into the swirling waters.

You lose your ship, treasure, and party members to the whirlpool. Soon the deadly waters begin dragging you under. You may enter one last note in your ship's log before Paco snatches it from your hand, and tries to fly off toward Specularum.

You have been defeated. If you want to start over using a new character, read action 29.

V92. The noise of grinding turmoil rises from the south. "Nasty circles!" Paco says. If you are adrift, read entry V91.

north — V83, 1 day      east — V92, 1 day
south — V91, 1 day      west — V81, 1 day

north — C18, 1 day
south — V108, 1 day      west — V99, 1 day

V110. Violent winds roar in your ears. A hurricane is upon you! Roll percentile dice if you are aboard a ship. Subtract the number rolled from the ship's Hull points.

To determine where the hurricane blows you, roll 2d4 and add the numbers together. Roll 2d4 again and add the numbers together. The first total is the tens digit of the voyage (V) location you are blown to by the storm. The second total is the ones digit of the voyage location you are blown to by the storm.

If you are adrift, follow the same procedure to determine where the hurricane blows you.

V111. A terrible storm has swept in from the east. Whitecaps race before the squall. Read entry V110.

V112. Thunderheads approach from the southeast. A mountain stands to the north. A tall gray plume trails from its peak toward the west. "Thar she blows!" says Paco.

V140. If you are alone, you reach the shore of an island. Read entry E3. If you are with a party, all party members having an Armor Class of 4 or lower are lost. Subtract all clerics, fighters, and dwarves from the NPC Party Chart. You reach the shore accompanied by any surviving party members. Read entry E3.

V141. If you are alone, you reach the shore of an island. Read entry E8. If you are with a party, all party members having an Armor Class of 4 or lower are lost. Subtract all clerics, fighters, and dwarves from the NPC Party Chart. You reach the shore accompanied by any surviving party members. Read entry E8.

V142. If you are alone, you reach the shore of an island. Read entry E11. If you are with a party, all party members having an Armor Class of 4 or lower are lost. Subtract all clerics, fighters, and dwarves from the NPC Party Chart. You reach the shore accompanied by any surviving party members. Read entry E11.

V143. Record the last sea entry you read. If your ship has one or more lifeboats, read entry V144.

If your ship has no lifeboat, you are adrift, clinging to a piece of floating wreckage. You have no rations or treasure.

If you are with a party, all party members having 4 or fewer Hit Dice are lost. Subtract all normal men, thieves, elves, and halflings from the NPC Party Chart. All surviving party members are now adrift, clinging to flotsam. They have no treasure or rations. Return to the last sea entry you recorded.

V144. If your party has more than 10 members per lifeboat (including yourself), read entry V145. If your party has 10 or fewer members per lifeboat (including yourself), divide the number of members by the number of lifeboats. Round down to the nearest whole number. This number is how many party members escape to the lifeboat with you. The total cannot exceed 10. Read entry V146.

V145. Roll 3d6. If the total is greater than your Strength score, you are forced away from the lifeboat. You are alone, drifting and clinging to a piece of wreckage. You have no rations or treasure. Return to the last sea entry recorded.

If the dice roll total is less than or equal to your Strength score, you and nine other party members make it into a lifeboat. Read entry V146.

V146. If there is more than one lifeboat, divide all rations and treasure by the number of lifeboats. Equal shares are loaded in each lifeboat. Before you can raise your lifeboat's mast, any other lifeboats from your ship drift out of sight and are lost. Subtract all party members that are not aboard your lifeboat from the NPC Party Chart. Return to the last sea entry you recorded.

Total

If the total number of NPCs in your party = 0, you are alone. If you are alone aboard a ship, you are adrift.

You may lead or send out a fighting party of either mariners or crew-members. The party cannot be made up of a mixture of mariners and crew-members. The number of party members you may lead or send out may be no more than a number equal to your Charisma score. For example, if your Charisma score is 14, you may lead or send out a fighting party of up to 14 NPCs (not counting yourself).

Determine your fighting party's Hit Dice by adding each member's Hit Dice and dividing the total by the number of members. If you are leading the party, be sure to include your Hit Dice before dividing the total.

Determine your fighting party's Armor Class by adding each member's Armor Class and dividing the total by the number of members. If you are leading the party, be sure to include your Armor Class before dividing the total.

ALL FRACTIONS ARE ROUNDED TO THE NEAREST WHOLE NUMBER. Round all numbers that end in .5 up to the next whole number.

Official Solo Adventure

Lathan's Gold

by Merle M. Rasmussen

KIDNAPPED! The cursed Baron von Hendriks has kidnapped your betrothed. Now the madman wants as a ransom your Alandah's weight in unrefined gold! How are you going to pay?

The baron himself has been kind enough to provide you with that answer: streams of raw gold gush from a burning mountain somewhere in the Sea of Dread. All you have to do is find this mysterious mountain.

UNFURL THE SAILS! The open sea awaits you and your crew as you sail from the city harbor. But beware! The Sea of Dread has more than earned its title over the centuries.

Can you survive the perils of the sea? Will your crew mutiny before you reach the Burning Mountain? Or will you have to throw crewmembers overboard just to make room for the gold? It's all up to you in this D&D® Solo Adventure.

Lathan's Gold is for one player only, but that one player may choose between several different characters and quests. The adventure includes city, voyage, and island encounters, as well as a complete solo combat system.

This module is for use with the DUNGEONS & DRAGONS® Expert Set, which continues and expands the D&D® Basic rules. This module cannot be played without the D&D® Basic and Expert rules produced by TSR, Inc.
